My opponent could not adhere to the clean campaign practices. He saw fit to publicly disclose my entire Commonwealth employment record including my salary. This he has done through hand-circulating a typewritten paper. Of my record as a state employe I am proud.

The following is the text of a paper my opponent is circulating over the typewritten names of Donald F. Wills, chairman; B. T. Miller, treasurer "Clean Government Committee For Francis Worley."

You will note that I have served in very responsible positions under five Governors. Had I not been an honest and efficient employe serving the best interests of all concerned I would not have been serving the state.

x In April, 1940, and January, 1963, I was involuntarily separated from state employment due to the changes in the administrations.

Apparently a cloud of fear of losing this election is descending on the man who has claimed to have represented Adams County for 18 years and is presently seeking another two years state employment.

Now take a look at his side of the picture.

The Republican candidate for the state legislature is reported to be asserting that he seeks his tenth term in the legislature in order to secure his state pension.

The Republican candidate has been receiving a state pension.

$282 On Dec. 1, 1962, he started receiving a monthly $387 If he is elected to his tenth term his monthly state pension will be increased to $105

How long must the Adams County Taxpayers be called upon to support the Republican candidate who said that he was unemployed?

HARRISBURG (AP) - Gov. Scranton will poll more votes than Sen. Barry Goldwater in Tuesday's presidential balloting.

But, if all the indicators are correct, Scranton in turn will be clobbered by Former Mayor Richardson Di orth of Philadelphia, who was trounced by Scran ton in the 1962 gubernatorial

And there is a strong possibility, hinging on those same indicators, that Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Harrisburg Republican, and president pro tempore of the State Senate will lose his second election of the year. VOTE FOR ELECTORS

President Johnson and Sen. Goldwater? They probably won't receive a single vote although their names are on the ballot and those of Scranton, Dilworth and Taylor are not. How come?

Because voters on Tuesday will not cast ballot for presidential nominees, but for presidential electors under the ancient electoral college system.

The college, comprised of 538 electors from the 50 states and the District of Columbia, will actually pick the next president in balloting in all of the state capitals on Dec. 14.

DILWORTH MAY Today's Pattern HOUSING ISSUE FACES FIGHT

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) Few political or religiou leaders have raised their voices in support of a proposed California constitutional amendment aimed at nullifying most of a state law banning housing discrimination.

But the silent voter apparentv has made his decision on Proposition 14 without being swayed by the fiery debates over the controversial issue. Recent polls indicate the initiative measure will carry Nov.

The proposed amendment would give cproperty owners absolute discretion in the choice of a buyer or renter of their property. It would nullify those provisions of antidiscrimination laws which restrict that discretion, and also prohibit the enactlocal governments.

DRUG SITTERS n a car Friday night.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government appeared ready today to use its police powers to break up the demonstration of krebiozen supporters at the office of Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare

Anthony J. Celebrezze. Sixteen men and women, most ill with cancer, have hovered around the entrance to the office since midday Thursday. They are protesting a federal indictment of the producers of the controversial anticancer drug.

The government says krebiozen is worthless, but these users say it keeps them alive. VIOLATION OF LAW

A spokesman for the department says the demonstrators were told Friday night that is a violation of the law."

A spokesman for the demonstrators, Margaret Fuhro of New Milford, N.J., said they had received an ultimatum: Leave peacefully or 'ace arrest and a possible $100 fine and sixmonth jail term. Mrs. Fuhro, who said she is

Re-elect D. Elmer HAWBAKER

State Senator

The choice is between decision and drift. Remember during eight years under city dominated Democratic administrations Pennsylvania drifted into economic decline, high unemployment, deficits and a nearly defunct Unemployment Compensation Fund. State Senator Hawbaker and other Republican Legislators made courageous decisions. The results: Pennsylvania's economy is growing, unemployment is below the National average, more jobs, State deficit wiped out with increased funds to schools, and Unemployment Compensation Fund on sound basis. For results vote Hawbaker!

DOCTORS FIND JOHN GLENN IN 'A-OK' HEALTH

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -Doctors said Friday there is no apparent reason why Marine Col. John H. Glenn Jr., ailing the past nine months from an inner ear injury, cannot return to flying.

Glenn, however, reiterated plans to retire.

The astronaut pronounced himself "in better shape than just before my 1962 space flight."

Glenn was officially released from Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital Friday morning after a two-day physical examination that will count as his retirement physical.

PLANS RETIREMENT

The doctors' findings left the door open for Glenn, just promoted to colonel by President Johnson, to retire from the Marine Corps "sometime around the first of the year." he said.

LEADS TOURNEY

RENO, Nev. (AP) - Dutch Harrison of Ellisville, Mo., carried a four-stroke lead today into the final round of the National Senior Open Gold Tournament, which he is favored to win for the fourth straight time. The steady, easy-going Harrison carded the tournament's lowest score Friday, a sparkling 65, as he one-putted the last seven greens. His 54-hole total of 203 was challenged by Harry Umbibetti of North Bend, Wash., who fired a 66 Friday and brought his total to 207. Six strokes back at 209 was Johnny Bulla, of La Quinta, Calif., while Jimmy Demaret of of Olympia, Wash., were tied at The leaders are competing for $5,000 first-place money in a $33,-000 total pro purse, billed as the richest in senior golf history.

"Petticoat Girls" Have Divergent Goals

By RUTH E. THOMPSON

Whoever says "Petticoat Junction" is improbable farce had better talk to its creator, Paul Henning. Seems he based the high-rated CBS Tuesday night comedy series on a real-life hotel in his wife's family. The thirty million who watch see its Henning's way, though, and can that many be wrong?

Likewise, whoever thinks the pretty trio who plays Bea Benaderet's daughters are finding this a rural romp has - well another think coming too.

WILLING TO WORK

"Luckily we're all willing to work for what we want," explains petite Linda Kaye.

In the first place the jobs weren't that easy to come by.

"Pat Woodell got in at the early stages when they were auditioning. She was the chosen one of 300. Jeannine walked by at just the last minute and was just right." "But I'd missed out earlier — on 25 auditions elsewhere," interjected the beautiful blond Jeannine Riley who plays boy-crazy Billie Jo. "But Linda," interjects friend, "had it roughest of all. She's Paul Henning's daughter. And he's the boss."

"SHE CAN ACT"

"Not until he saw me on-stage in 'Picnic' at the North Hollywood Playhouse, did he concede, 'Well, OK, I guess she can act.' " Paramount had already signed her for "Bye Bye Birdie." mind you.

"Well you see," says Linda who lives with her folks, "ours is a big house and then Dad just doesn't talk much about his work. 'Petticoat Junction' was all written before I even knew he was planning another series. And mostly I still see Dad just at home. He isn't on our set much because he spends most of his time on 'Beverly Hillbillies" (which gold mine he also created).

They are very different, they

"Real pros. Say 9:29 a.m. in costume, they're all there at 9:28. These promotional tours can be rugged, but these kids just seem to get sweeter."

How do they do it? Each has her own method . . . but Jeannine's is perhaps the most unexpected. "I'm deeply grateful to my father for introducing me to metaphysics when I was 15. Now Im not perfect and I can get upset at times. But I'll tell you this, later on I can always figure out why. When you tap the power of the universe you are the master of your own

The radiant blonde is also mistress of her own home. "It's half an hour away from my folks. I'm a furniture maker type . . . and my boy friend Gary Groom, who's a writer, helps me make things like brand new antique tables."

And where do the others live? Pat, who's been married half a year to Gary Clarke, is real proud of her house, "all white and gold and marble. With a very denny den, and a good kitchen." Pat, concur the others, is the very best cook . . . though they can all do a decent job. You do have to push me, though," says Jeannine, "and better ask somebody else to do the dishes."

Linda says, sure "I wouldn't mind having a house of my own too. If my parents ever decide to sell, that is, and if I could afford it. I've lived there 16 years. I've got m yroom just the way I want it, white, gold and turquoise. I've even had my pet snake reupholstered." Cynthia's absorbed so many adolescent tears, it seems, that the will tell you. As for the human factor "NBS will have more than 10,000 people working exclusively on its election coverage and will furnish the Network Election Service some 70,000 people to gather and tabulate votes.'

CBS, ABC and NBC together with The Associated Press and United Press International have pooled together for the first time in a basic newsgathering effort to cover 130,000 of the nation's 177,000 voting precincts and will obtain returns from the other 47,000 precincts at the county level. In addition, each of the networks and news services supplements with its own private analysis and interpretation.

Though no single transmission will exceed 15 minutes, election information will be relayed to Europe (via Relay satellite) over a four-day period (from NBC . since November is NBC's month as satellite coordinator).

"Relay 2" will be the busiest, handling 16 transmissions, but "Relay 1" will also be utilized November 4, the day after the elections. The programs will be bearned individually averaging six minutes in length to: The BBC the European Broadcasting Union, Independent Television Network and Radio-Television Française.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG The Associated Press

QUESTION: We have an old house, with asbestos shingle siding over two previous layers of wood siding. Some time ago we had to make some attachments to the side of the house, but found that the siding split every time we nailed into it. We had the same experience when we decided to use a portable electric drill, although the splits were not as pronounced as when we nailed directly. Now that we have some further nailing to do, we don't want to make the same mistake. Can you help us?

ANSWER: You probably would have no trouble if you used screws instead of nails. But if you want to use nails, do the drilling with a brace and bit or one of those breast drills that look like old-fashioned egg beaters. Be sure you don't make the holes larger than the heads of the nails. There are special nails for siding.

some paint thinner on an asphalt tile floor. By wiping quickly, I was able to get most of it off. But one spot, about the size of a dollar bill, resisted all my efforts. The tile is black. Can the spot be removed?

ANSWER: There isn't too much you can do about this, since the thinner by this time has done its damage. But you might try steel-wooling the area lightly. In any case, because 8 Percy Platypus & His Friends | 8-11 College Football — Illinois the tile is black, you should be ible to touch it up with some black paint so that the stain is inconspicuous. Another solution is to break up that particular tile with a cold chisel and hammer, scrape off all the dried adhesive and install another tile in its place.

taken to politics in a big way and have hit the political limelight. There are Nexhimje Hoxha, wife of the Albanian Communist party chief who plays an active political role, and Lotte Ulbricht, wife of the East German Communist boss, who is a militant Communist feminist. And of course, Nina Khrushchev.

But the majority of women in Communist East Europe go about their work without public recognition. Bezeny Novotny, wife of the Czechoslovak leader, appears in public only once a year on March 8, Communism's International Women's Day. The wives of the Bulgarian and Hungarian leaders are as anonymous as Madame Novotny.

Bulgarian and Romanian birthrates have also fallen sharp ly. Czechoslovakia has the same problem and has made it more difficult to get abortions as an attempt to stop the decline and build up a larger labor force potential.

The birthrate in Poland is also falling, but because of unemployment there, there is less concern.

But while life for women is not easy, women in East Europe remain feminine as always.

Budapest, Prague, Bucharest and Solia are not peopled with militant Communuist women with short straight hair, flat shoes and leather jackets striding through the streets. Despite economic problems, they ap pear on the streets of their cities well turned out. And in the country, women in colorful peasant dress work their embroidery on the steps of their houses.

Paris fashion magazines are available in some cities and even have recently received Paris.

BEAUTY BEFORE POLITICS

Style-conscious Polish women wear seamless stockings, highheeled and preferably Italian shoes and eye make-up. Socialist fashions flopped because no woman wanted to buy a stateproduced dress she knew most of her contemporaries would also be buying.

The women in Communist Europe are women and the men know it. The time has gone when a young Communist lad would hope to get anywhere with the polite question: "Comrade, would you do me a sexual favor?"

Does the average camera BUDAPEST (AP) - Men and lowest in all of Europe. Eighty- fan feel he has a "friend" in one he can turn to for advice and help in his picture-taking efforts?

The answer seems to be 'No!" particularly in the larger photo shops in the big cities of the United States. The matter painters to include you in their Australian communications enwas a point of discussion recently with Wolf Wehran, a representative of the Camera Industries of West Germany, after he had returned from a 10,000mile tour of this country.

"Salesmen seem to concentrate their efforts on selling cameras with main emphasis on the price." Wehran noted. They have little time to spare for the customer on the matter of good pictures and how to take them. Afterwards, they have even less time to discuss how to improve the customer's first efforts unless there is a chance to sell him additional equipment or trade in one camera for a more expensive model.

PERSONAL SERVICE

"In big cities the dealers comgoal seems to be "Turnover!" Camera stores often ignore servsonal basis to bring him backthey depend on a discount."

This generalization has many exceptions, of course, through to see if the person you are than what she is, which is dressmakers copy models from out the country. I recall the them, Hungarian fashion shows case of Herbert T. Marcus, an exceptionally gifted amateur photographer Ohio. He attributed his rapid tographer to the advice, enwhich he received from his local camera dealer, David Tonstarted in the windows of Tondow's camera store.

"I think national emphasis on photo beginners by camera respect to fabric.) store dealers," Wehran said, photography.

TRAIN SALESMEN

"One way we achieve this in Germany," he pointed out, "is to train our photographic salesmen. Six years ago, through the joint efforts of dealers and manufacturers, a two - year trade school was established. Applicants for jobs must attend. They learn darkroom technique, the mechanics of different cameras and equipment and how to take pictures as well as sales psychology, business administration and merchandising.

"As a result, photo salesmen have a profession when they finish, not just a salesman's job. They are able to talk intelligently and competently about picture taking not only with beginners but with more advanced camera fans. Camera store competition in Germany is based on the service they give to the customers, never on the price.

"Another thing we have in Germany," Wehran pointed out, 'is a nonprofit association founded by the photographic industry and dealers to further the advancement of photog-
